

UCLA Health Dementia Care Aware Key Offerings

Dementia Mini-Course: A course that emphasizes an evidence-based, practical, and functional approach to the comprehensive care of older adults through online video modules. CME credits are available free of charge.

National Learning Collaborative: A national community of health systems and others such as developers of complementary models, health policymakers, and government staff interested in spreading the ADC program and improving the care of persons with dementia and their caregivers. For more information, contact ADCProgramNLC@edc.org

ADC ECHO®: The Alzheimer's Association ECHO Program connects dementia experts with healthcare teams in a free continuing education series of interactive, case-based video conferencing sessions. The fall 2023 waitlist is now open.

ADC Dissemination: The ADC program provides comprehensive, coordinated, dementia care for persons living with dementia and their loved ones. Advanced Practice Providers work with the patient's referring physician to create and implement a personalized care plan. The first 20 sites will receive a fee waiver through the DCA initiative. To schedule a call with the ADC team, complete an interest form: <https://www.adcprogram.org/interest-form>.

Referrals to other Dementia Care Models: To learn about other dementia care models (the Care Ecosystem, BRI CC, MIND-at-Home, HABC, or IMC), please contact Jagrup Kaur at dementiaPM@mednet.ucla.edu.
